Vivian,

The services covered under the scope of work for this project does provide some sub-contracting opportunities especially in electrical, plumbing, and environmental. The problem with the services being requested is that the amount of sub-contracting work is not constant and may only be needed occasionally. Such examples may include repairs involving high voltage equipment and control panels, deep well pump repairs, and some environmental monitoring. The bulk of the operation and maintenance work will be provided by the prime's facility operator which is required to be a licensed "Class A" wastewater treatment plant operator. Due to regulatory requirements and compliance standards for Waste Water Discharge and Treated Water Injection at these landfill facilities, these services can only be provided by the prime to satisfy these requirements.

I hope this helps and feel free to call me if you have any additional questions.

Subject: RE: RFP867, Operation of Waste Water Treatment Plant

Amado,

Thanks for taking my call this morning; as per our conversation, please clarify/confirm the following:

Are there any "Sub-consulting / sub-contracting" opportunities that could be identified for SBE firms under this RFP? If, not, would you please provide the project specific or scope related reasons as to why not...

Please note, there quite a few engineering firms that are not only certified in the required commodity codes, but have the experience and expertise, (will poll firms and provide same confirm). Your concern as to the "licenses" requirements are legitimate; however, be mindful, in a lot a cases the prime carries that burden of responsibility for the team.

The attempt here is to identify a "sub-consultant" goal for this RFP...

Thanks for your time and consideration.

Regards,

Vivian O. Walters, Jr.

Hi Vivian

Please review the attached RFP for a determination of the SBE measure to be applied. A copy of the input doc/project measures worksheet is also attached. The estimated cost for this project for the initial five year contract term is $5,000,000 and the funding source is Proprietary. This contract is being issued to replace RFP285. My recommendation would be a Selection Factor.

Thanks.
